Fifth Incendiary Blaze In Same Vicinity Marks Tragedy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A pyro-maniac, applying his torch to in-flammable garments in a group of baby carriages parked for the night in a lower hallway, converted two Lexington avenue tenement house into flaming furnaces and brought a toil of death today estimated at between fourteen and twenty men, women and children.

Selecing the most advantageout point for perpetrating his madness -light wicker perambulators of all —light wicker perambulators of all sorts at the foot of a stairway—the pyromaniac saw the flames take hold rapidly and mount upward, trapping the sleeping tenants on floors above. Quickly spreading, the adjoining tenement building was swept by the fire before the fire apparatus could make effective headway against it.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 22. The Hall-Mills murder investiga-tion will reach its climax tomor-row. Either Prosecutor Beekman will go before the Somerset County grand jury and ask the indictment of one, and probably three, per-sons as responsible for the killing of the minister and the choir singer, or the case will be virtually dropped through a tacit admission that his force has been unable to obtain sufficient evidence to pro-cure an indictment. The United States Coal Commission, under the leadership of John Hays Hammond, has launched its "fact-finding" inquiry into the coal industry, with every available resource of the government at its disposal.

The results of forty-three years of research and study of the coal industry by the Department of the Interior have been tendered to the Commission by Acting Secretary Finney in a letter to Mr. Hammand.
